

28 April 2010

HELPING TO BRING BUSINESS OUT OF THE RECESSION

CNG Business Services, the outsourcing specialist, is encouraging companies to work smarter and use third party suppliers for tasks that take unnecessary time and skill out of the working day.

With many businesses dealing with the same work loads but smaller teams, as a result of down sizing or necessary redundancy, CNG Business Services suggests that when it comes to tasks such as basic administration, sales calls or data base management that SME companies turn to commercial overseas outsourcing specialists.

Multinationals are saving millions of pounds in overheads by doing this, and CNG Business Services is bringing that saving to businesses of all sizes.

Often resulting in both time and cost savings of anything up to 60 per cent, commercial overseas outsourcing allows companies to focus on their core business, without taking the risks that can be associated with employing an additional person to a team.

Sanjeev Patel commented: "Outsourcing is an obvious choice for businesses who want to use their time more efficiently. At CNG Business Services we can do anything from analysing reports or typing letters to making sales calls and chasing payments."

He continues: "Really what we offer is cost effective support that people can rely on. Employing staff can be costly and the recruitment process and then management takes time, so using corporate outsourcing eliminates these concerns and the stress associated to them."

For further details on the specific skills offered from CNG Business Services please contact. 01904 692447. // ENDS